

Persona Doll Training

EMBRACING DIVERSITY

Play with pride!

Persona Doll Training has a new range of dolls to celebrate our different cultures and make it possible for children to play proudly with dolls that look like themselves and their friends.

Ubuntu diversity play dolls are high-quality dolls available in diverse cultural and religious backgrounds with authentic skin colours, hairstyles and types. The girl and boy dolls are anatomically correct. They are safe, durable and washable and can be used by children at home, in ECD Centres and in schools.

The dolls come dressed in a set of removable clothing. Traditional props and clothing can be added or improvised, for example headscarves, kippahs. They are hand made by skills development groups and generate income for local communities. They are proudly South African!

Advantages of Ubuntu Play Dolls

These attractive, diverse dolls will make play especially meaningful for children – dolls that look just like them, as well as dolls that look different.

Children identify with their dolls, and feel proud that the doll is “just like me”. This reinforces children’s positive sense of their gender, culture, faith, community, and self-esteem and confidence. They learn that we can all be ‘friends together’ even if we look different. Language will be stimulated through their enriched play.

The dolls encourage discussion, education and acceptance of diversity by demonstrating the values and heritage we all bring to our cultures.

Order from: Persona Doll Training
info@pdt.org.za

Persona Doll Training
EMBRACING DIVERSITY

Facebook: Persona Doll Training: Embracing Diversity

Twitter: @PersonaDoll

Website: www.pdt.org.za